Test 3—The History of Cats

Directions: Read the passage to answer questions 1–5.

Cats have a long and interesting history. In fact, the cat was probably the first animal kept as a pet. The Egyptians worshiped cats. In Europe cats were praised for their ability to catch rats and mice. They were much in demand during the Black Plague illnesses of the 14th century.

In the Middle Ages, cats lost much of their appeal because they became connected with devil worship. Many cats lost their lives and gave rise to superstitions still held by some people today.

The American Indian did not appear to keep cats as pets, so it wasn't until the white settlers came from Europe that cats were kept as pets in America. The Colonists, like the Europeans, found cats helpful in controlling rats and mice.

Being an adult

When you are a child, you're the most important person in the world to your parents. They do everything for you, and usually when many years to realize that other people are important, too. Some people never have this simple truth – but real adults do.

Everyone makes mistakes, but when things go wrong, real adults don't lie about what happened. They don't blame someone else and they don't make excuses. They aren't afraid or too proud to apologize for their mistakes and try and learn from them.

Others can come first, but real adults know their dreams must be realistic. If you're 10 years old, you can't be a professional basketball player. But sometimes it doesn't matter if you're only 10 years old. Can you make things? Then maybe you can be a good computer. Are you good with words? Then maybe you can be a writer. Adults work hard for the things they can have.

Real adults look after themselves. They know they should eat their vegetables, exercise regularly and get eight hours of sleep every night. They also know that it's alright to be mean, think what you say and act right – occasionally.

Real adults understand about money. They know they can't go to the supermarket without it, they can't buy a house or clothes on holiday. They also know that although some money is necessary for a good life, making money should not be our goal in life.

Real adults know that education is important. They also understand that education is not only what happens at school or university. It happens all through life. You know that they can get on better with their books, the internet, other people, life, the mistakes they make, travelling, from thinking a little every day.

Real adults know that sometimes life is being and occasionally it's exciting. It isn't always happy and it isn't always sad. Sometimes they need to know that they don't have to be. Other times they are free to do anything they want. They know that good and bad things happen, but they also know that all things pass.
